

Seminar: Global Sourcing 02.11.2010, Trondheim

Ever-increasing global competition challenges the ability of Norwegian industry to adapt to markets, technology and new forms of organization. Global Sourcing is one of the strategies that might help Norwegian industry to stay competitive and successful in the future.

Still, how do firms deal with an increasingly international supplier base? Which opportunities are there? How to overcome challenges and difficulties? In the seminar, real life experiences from firms are combined with results on international scientific research.

NTNU's Globalization Program, IGLO MP 2020 and the SMARTLOG Network invite you to attend this free seminar on current pressing issues related to international business. The latest research and insight on the challenges and opportunities of Global Sourcing will be presented by international and national academics as well as representatives from leading Norwegian companies.

Seminar: Global Sourcing

We are proud to announce that we have contributions from two international academic experts: Prof. Finn Wynstra (Rotterdam School of Management, Erasmus University, The Netherlands) and Dr. Lutz Preuss (Royal Holloway, University of London, UK). In addition, PhD Candidate Christofer Skaar will be presenting research from NTNU.

Leading Norwegian companies are participating as well. Reinertsen (International Procurement Manager Thomas Kristiansen), Telenor (CPO Telenor Nordic Olav Storli Ulvund), and Ulstein (Head of Accelerated Business Development Per Ivar Roald) will share their practical experiences related to challenges and opportunities of global sourcing, and also participate in the panel discussion.

The practical relevance of the presented research and challenges and opportunities of global sourcing will be discussed in plenary.

Welcome to a free, inspiring and informative seminar and networking event!
